

A new TV

Last year our old TV broke. It was very old.

We went to look for a new TV. In the first shop all the TV sets cost a lot. They cost more than we could afford.

In the second shop we saw a TV we liked. We asked how much it cost. It was quite cheap. We could afford it.

We thought that, as it was cheap, it might break down soon. We asked what would happen if it broke down.

The woman in the shop said we could bring it back if it broke down within three years. They would repair it or give us a new one.

That sounded good. So we bought the TV. We are very happy with it.